“Grief reminds us how deeply we have loved.”

What is grief?

Grief is a natural response to losing someone important.

People experience grief in many ways. Some may feel sadness, anger, numbness, anxiety or loneliness. Others may struggle with sleep, concentration or daily life.

There is no right or wrong way to grieve.

Culture, faith, family traditions and personal beliefs may shape how grief is experienced and expressed.

Who is the Redbridge Bereavement Service for?

We support:

- Children and young people
- Adults
- Parents and carers
- Families
- People affected by recent or past bereavement
- Individuals experiencing sudden, traumatic or complex loss

This includes bereavement following:

- illness
- sudden death
- suicide
- homicide
- multiple losses
- anticipated death

We welcome people from all communities, cultures, faiths and backgrounds across Redbridge.

Interpreter support can be arranged where possible.

How we can help

Support may include:

- One-to-one conversations with a counsellor
- Group support
- Emotional wellbeing support
- Bereavement assessments
- Support for children and young people
- Family support and therapy
- Signposting to other services and community resources

Support can take place:

- By telephone
- Online
- In community venues
- In schools
- At Saint Francis Hospice
- In other suitable local settings

Respecting culture, faith and community

Many people find strength and comfort through family, faith leaders, places of worship and their community following a bereavement.

Our service is intended to work alongside these important sources of support by offering additional emotional support in a safe, respectful and confidential environment.

We aim to provide support that respects:

- Faith
- Culture
- Traditions
- Family values
- Individual beliefs and practices

Support for children and young people

Children and young people may grieve differently from adults.

They may:

- Become withdrawn
- Struggle at school
- Become anxious or angry
- Ask repeated questions
- Worry about family members
- Seem unaffected at times

We provide age-appropriate support for children and young people and can work alongside families and schools where appropriate.
